Pot charged with racism and sexism

McGill students from various faculties last night formed an ad hoc committee to raise the issues of sexism and racism on campus, in response to the latest edition of the Plumber's Pot. The committee was created after over 40 students met in the Union to discuss the paper, published by the Engineering Undergraduates Society.

The committee began circulating a petition this morning calling for the resignation of the Pot editors and those responsible for yesterday's issue, and their appearance "before a forum of McGill students to justify their actions."

Yesterday's Pot contained, among other items:

- a cartoon associating Union manager Frank Costi with the Mafia and labelling Student Councilors Will Hoffman and Whitney Hardy as "super pimp and his faithful companion super whore".
- an unsigned article which described members of the Gay Society of McGill as "perverts", and expressed surprise that Buildings and Grounds workers—"incompetents"—could "even tie their shoe laces".
- a statement to the effect that the Students' Society is run by "fucking disgusting shiteheads".
- a picture of a naked woman in a provocative position with the caption: "Ride with us, Fuck the Metro, Grab a bust". A Metro direction sign pointed to the woman's crotch.

The Editorial Board of the Pot, in a statement released yesterday, recognized that "specific portions" of their paper were in "poor taste". (The full text of their statement appears on page 3).

Meanwhile, the petition circulated by the committee states that attacks such as those in yesterday's Pot "against specific individuals, women, gays, Jews, Italians, political groups, and university workers, must be opposed so that they will never occur again."

The decision to form a committee to plan action came last night after two hours of heated debate on the implications of the contents of the Pot.

EUS President Jan Peeters urged students to deal with the issue "in a quiet and rational matter".

"The best way to deal with something like that," he said, "is to shut up."

The people at the meeting disagreed with him, but insisted, however, that the issue should not degenerate into a personal vendetta against Pot staffers, but should be used in an educational way to show sexism and racism as part of modern society. But most students maintained that the Pot editors should be removed in order to set a precedent "that those type of things won't be accepted again."

Peeters pointed out that the Pot editors could be removed if enough engineering students petitioned for an EUS open meeting to carry through such an action.

"Something along these lines will probably be forthcoming," Peeters said.

Students' Council engineering representative Harn Yawngwe commenting on the latest Pot issue said: "As far as I'm concerned, this kind of thing is not representative at all of engineers. I'm definitely against this thing and I'm sure most engineers are."

"A large group of concerned engineers are going to have a statement out on this subject shortly," he said.

At an EUS meeting earlier in the day, a fourth year engineering student also had something to say about the Pot's latest issue. He

Nfld. students fight Administration

ST. JOHN'S (CUP)—Nearly 1500 students occupied the Arts and Administration Building of Memorial University Wednesday to protest the Administration's unilateral decision to discontinue collection of compulsory student union fees.

The decision, announced last Tuesday in a press release from Memorial President Lord Stephen Taylor, would put an end to the collection of the fees, as the Union would have no way to enforce collection.

The students feel that Taylor and the Administration had no right to make the decision unilaterally, without any negotiation with the Union. They also feel that students, not administrators, should make the decision as to whether Union membership should be compulsory or voluntary.

The Administration timed its announcement so that it was made on the first day of a five-day mid-term break, delaying student action on the move until this week.

A general meeting held on Tuesday, with 3000 of the school's 7500 students attending, voted to oppose the Administration and to occupy the Administration Building.

The students occupied Taylor's office as well as the offices of the Comptroller and the Vice-President, and waited for Taylor to return from a lecture he was giving to engineering students.

When Taylor arrived at his office, he was protected by a cordon of 15 or 20 engineers, who said that they were opposed to the Students' Union in its present form and supported the President.

Taylor left the building after the occupiers refused to vacate. He had offered to discuss the issue with them two at a time, if they would leave his office.

The Administration attempted to persuade the students to leave the building and send a negotiating committee. The students vociferously refused and stated that they intended to continue the occupation in order to win their demands.

YOU AND... YOUR DEGREE

What does the Engineering degree really mean to you? Is it a piece of paper that you can hang on your wall? Or is it a symbol of achievement, a testament to your hard work and dedication? The answer is both. It is a piece of paper, yes, but it is also a symbol of your potential, your ability to solve problems, and your commitment to excellence.

The Engineering degree is not just a collection of facts and figures. It is a way of thinking, a way of approaching problems, and a way of working with others. It is a degree that prepares you for the challenges of the real world, and it is a degree that gives you the tools you need to succeed.

So, when you look at your degree, don't just see a piece of paper. See a symbol of your achievement, a testament to your hard work, and a symbol of your potential. Because that's what it is. It's yours, and it's yours to be proud of.

DID YOU SEE THE CARTOON IN THE PLUMBER'S POT? THERE'S A LOT OF TROUBLE OVER IT.

A CARTOON, EH? WHAT'S THE MATTER? IT WASN'T FUNNY?

IT WAS INSULTING, ANTI-SEMITIC, SEXIST, AND ANTI-HOMOSEXUAL.

HE SHOULDN'T WRITE A CARTOON. HE SHOULD MAKE A GOVERNMENT.

CARTOONISTS ARE ALWAYS GETTING INTO TROUBLE.

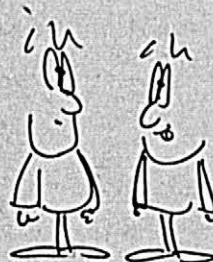

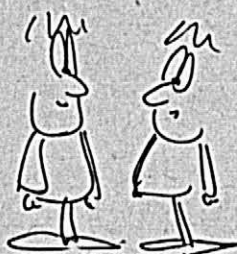

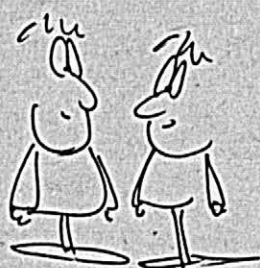

YEAH. SOMETHING ABOUT CARTOONS IS DOWN-RIGHT OFFENSIVE.

YOU CAN DO ANYTHING YOU LIKE IN A CARTOON. YOU INVENT LITTLE PEOPLE AND MAKE THEM DO ALL THE THINGS YOU WISH YOU COULD DO.

SO NATURALLY PEOPLE TAKE OFFENSE. WHY, THAT CARTOONIST IS PROBABLY A REAL SWEET GUY. HE JUST WISHES HE WAS INSULTING, ANTI-SEMITIC, SEXIST, AND ANTI-HOMOSEXUAL.

SURE. CARTOONISTS JUST POKE FUN AT GENERAL HUMAN NATURE.

THE GOOD ONES, THAT IS. THERE ARE ALWAYS OBVIOUS HALF-WIT CREEPS LIKE KATJAKS WHO RESORT TO NAME-CALLING AND PERSONAL ATTACKS.

Daily staff statement

Statement from Gundars Kajaks

Dear Students,

A retraction is not enough, an apology is hardly sufficient, but I would like to apologize to Whitney Hardy, Will Hoffman, Frank Costi, Ze'ev Ionis, the Gay Liberation, and any other group that I have managed to slander in my cartoon in the Plumber's Pot of November 15.

My political views were carried away to the extent of personal attacks uncalled for to the sensitivity of the student body and the persons and groups involved.

Again I apologize.

Sincerely,
Gundars Kajaks

EUS Statement

Sir,

The following motion was passed at a meeting of the Engineering Undergraduate Society Council on the fifteenth of November: "The Members of the EUS Council

- Condemn and censure the article that appeared on page 5, volume 70, issue 4 of the Plumber's Pot.

- wish to dissociate themselves (by notice in the Plumber's Pot and the McGill Daily) from the views presented in that article and to state that these views are not representative of those of the Engineers.

- demand a public apology from the person or persons responsible.

- request a statement from the Plumber's Pot staff naming the editorial staff and listing their responsibilities."

I wish to offer my personal apologies to all those who were slandered and insulted by that article.

Sincerely,
Jan Peeters
(President, EUS)

Pot Statement

To Whitney Hardy and William Hoffman,

The editorial staff of the PLUMBER'S POT deeply regrets any injury or embarrassment caused by the recent issue of Nov. 15, (vol. 70, issue 4). We wish to express our sincere apologies to you who were offended. We recognize that specific portions of the material published was in poor taste.

In no way do the opinions expressed in the PLUMBER'S POT necessarily reflect the opinions of the EUS or engineering students in general.

Edward Strapagiel,
Michael Miskin,
Jean Corbell,
Pierre Latreille,
Gerry Macpherson,
Michael Goldberg:
Editorial Board,
The Plumber's Pot.

The attitude prevalent throughout yesterday's issue of the Plumber's Pot is only one blatant example of the sexism, racism, and general degradation of human values, in our society. Most people submit to the constant bombardment of these values, and are only jarred out of their complacency when the barrage attains inordinate proportions.

This is most effectively illustrated by the fact that the Pot's consistently insulting editorial policies failed to evoke widespread student disapproval until yesterday's outrageous edition. Since then, those responsible for the paper's contents have apologized and admitted the validity of the protests launched against them. Of course, an "apology" in such circumstances is meaningless. The Pot's editors and their prolific cartoonist have given no indication that they are sincerely interested in attacking the roots of the attitudes they have publicly displayed, both in themselves and in the structure of present society.

The EUS Council decided that the behavior of their editors does not constitute sufficient grounds for impeachment, a decision which, in essence, is a tacit endorsement of the Pot's policies. The EUS President has been spending his time trying to convince angered students not to "overreact".

Faced with this official inertia, McGill students should organize to change the editorial policies of the Pot. A call for the resignation of the editors from the students themselves—and not from a bureaucratic clique or from the Administration's "disciplinary" organs—would not be an infringement on the newspaper's autonomy, but would rather set a valuable precedent for the entire McGill community in its rejection of racism, sexism, and personal slander.

Pot...

criticized it for its "sexist attitude, intimidating not only female engineers, but all females".

A motion introduced at the meeting by engineering Council reps Sidney Chan and Harn Yawngwe called for among other things, a condemnation and censure of the libellous articles in the Pot, and the resignation or barring from the Pot of those responsible.

The motion that was finally passed by the EUS Council, however, was considerably weaker in its stand on the contents of the Pot. (The complete text of this motion appears on page 3). Eighteen representatives voted for the final motion, 10 opposed it.

Yesterday's Pot also sparked other actions on campus. Two students met in the early afternoon with acting Dean of Students S. Mirza to consider forwarding a formal complaint to the Disciplinary Committee.

from the local police on the occupation, though a couple of plainclothes men were keeping an eye on things. Campus security locked as many doors as possible in the building, but otherwise did little to oppose the students.

The students were given moral support from student unions at Dalhousie, Manitoba, the University of Prince Edward Island, and The College of Trades and Technology in St. John's. The local bus drivers' union, presently engaged in a strike against City Hall, declared their support. Some workers in the Administration Building also said they were sympathetic to the students' cause.

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE

The Entertainment Committee presents the first of a series of rock festivals, to be known as Scorpion Concerts, Friday, November 17, 8 pm, in the Union Ballroom. The series will feature some of Quebec's and Canada's top groups, and is an attempt to revive the spirit of the Montreal underground of years gone by.

Scorpion I features Dionysos, Expedition, Wizard, Incubus, and Heritage, plus the mind-blowing June Light Show. The groups represent Quebec's top recording and performing artists. Dionysos, with three L.P.'s to their credit, was sent by the CBC to represent Canada at the internationally famous Montreux Jazz Festival in Switzerland. Expedition recently recorded a live album before an audience of 2,000 in Vieux Montréal. Wizard, Incubus, and Heritage are three well-known heavy rock bands. They will be backed up by the liquid, strobe, and spot effects of what is probably Montreal's top light show. The concert will last six or seven hours, and an estimated 1,500 people will attend.

Tickets are available in the Union Box Office at $1.50. At the door, admission will be $1.75 for McGill students, and $2.00 for the general public.
